MUSSOLINI'S DEFI THREAT OF WAR

GERMANS VIEW IT AS INAUSPICIOUS OMEN

CONDUCTS CAMPAIGN OF LIES, SAYS PREMIER

Premier's Speech Accepted In Rome As Most Significant Since Corfu Incident; Italy Will Never Withdraw, Says Mussolini.

Rome.—Premier Mussolini's speech in the Chamber of Deputies on February 6, in which he warned Germany against the anti-Italian campaign carried on in the Reich, was characterized frequently in political circles today as almost equivalent to a declaration of war against Germany. All day long Mussolini's words of warning were discussed, and his speech was declared to be one of the best, certainly the most significant, of his international statements since the Corfu incident.

All the newspapers agreed that the speech was such a thoroughgoing embodiment of the spirit of fascist Italy that comment was considered superfluous, almost impossible.

The fateful words which were uttered by Mussolini in the throned Italian chamber were an unmistakable warning to Germany and had particular reference to a recent speech of Dr. Held, the militant Bavarian Premier.

The climax of Mussolini's tirade against Germany came at the end, when he exclaimed:

"Fascist Italy, can if necessary carry her flag beyond the Brennero frontier, but never backwards from where it flies now.

"It is a lie also," he continued, "that the monument to Empress Elizabeth at Brassanone was burned. You may have heard of concentrations of Fascist expeditions, and in the German newspapers you could read horrible descriptions of violence committed against German tourists. You hear of apologies which the Italian government was to have addressed to the German Embassy in Rome regarding anti-German manifestations by students. All these are stupid lies.

"There was never a question of a German South Tyrol. The treaty of St. ermain (between Italy and Austria) gave us that territory, and in that territory we simply apply our Italian laws. That which the Roman Italy has done is nothing compared to what other nations have done. Today even Czecho-Slovakia enforces the use of the Czech language among the Germans and German newspapers there.

"To the German nation we say, as we say to all peoples, the Fascist people want to be your sincere friend, a friend with your hands up, a good friend, but outside of 'kultur.'

"I wish I could be understood by all who should understand my words, so that the Italian government need not pass to a more concrete reply. This would be given tomorrow if the German government assumed which has happened and which may happen to Germany."

CANADA WILL PROBE SMUGGLING FROM U. S.

Ottawa, Ont.—The Canadian government will name a committee at once to investigate the charges made by H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce, and a member of the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons, that Canadian treasury has lost millions of dollars through wholesale smuggling across the United States border.

In his charges, made in the house Stevens accused the government of failure to take effective action to remedy these conditions. It was estimated, he said, that $30,000,000 had been diverted from the exchequer with the connivance of Canadian customs officials. He named a former high employee of the customs department of Montreal as the leading offender

Forbes' Associates Wants Review

Washington.—John W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, convicted with Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau on conspiracy charges growing out of hospital contracts, asked the Supreme Court recently to review his case. Counsel for Forbes is expected to make a similar plea in a short time. Thompson's petition charged numerous errors to the lower courts and attacked the veracity of Elias H. Mortimer, chief prosecution witness.

Cussing Barred on Church Building

Reno.—Workmen on the new Methodist Episcopal church at Reno are requested by a sign posted by the contractor not to use profanity while working on the building.

BEER AND WINE PLEA AROUSES WETS, DRYS

Wheeler Makes Categorical Denial of Indictment By Church Society—Prohibition Cannot Be Enforced Says Pittsburg Bishop.

Washington. — Advocacy of light wines and beer by the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal Church provoked a volcanic outburst of comment from various organizations interested in prohibition and led also to some fireworks in Congress.

Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League issued a statement, denying in detail the conclusions of fact on which the society based its decision.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance said the Episcopal church has "contributed nothing to the triumph of the prohibition law and its attempt to betray it will be without consequence."

Senator Edge, Republican, New Jersey, who has a beer-and-wine bill pending, put into the record the announcement made in New York on behalf of the Episcopal society by Dr. James Empringham, but it was admitted only after it was agreed to print with it the reply issued by Wheeler. When Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, objected to accepting the one without the other, Senator Edge replied that he gladly would permit the Wheeler statement to be put into the record because it seemed to him "so profoundly ridiculous."

Pittsburg, Pa.—"The fact that every bootlegger would vote for the continuation of the Volstead law is proof that it is not a good law," said Bishop Alexander Mann of the Episcopalian diocese of Pittsburg, on the query as to his own ideas on the proposed action of the temperance society of the church to ask that the Volstead act be modified.

"Personally I did not believe in the eighteenth amendment, and I think the Volstead act is a bad law. Prohibition cannot possibly be enforced. The law is resented by many persons, good and bad, who feel it an infringement.

"There is no doubt but prohibition has caused more drinking among the younger set. And we all know that the liquor being sold today is sheer poison."

NEW SHENANDOAH PLANS SUBJECT OF HOUSE DEBATE

Washington.—The complete plans of the Aircraft Development Corporation, which has offered to build a metal clad airship on a fifty-fifty basis for the navy, were revealed in the recent debate on the floor of the House over the appropriation of $300,000 requested from the Government.

These plans show that Professor R. A. Milliken of the California Institute of Technology, who is regarded as one of the leading physicists in America, was a member of the advisory staff which h' een working on the plans for th metal craft.

Some of the cations of the proposed airship are: gas capacity, 200,000 cubic feet; length of hull, 150 feet; thickness of metal skin, .008 of an inch; horsepower, 400; gross life, with helium, 12,600 pounds, crew four; passengers, six; commercial range, 720 miles; maximum speed, 70 miles an hour.

The corporation has spent more than $300,000 in its laboratory investigations, testing the structural members of every part of the framework to destruction, revealing a minimum safety factor double that of the Shenandoah. The problem of making the metal hull gas tight has been solved with surprising efficiency indicating an osmosis of only one-tenth of that through gold-beaters' skin and only one-hundredth that through rubberized fabric.

Boulder Cayon Bill Up To Work

Washington.—A revised draft of the Swing-Johnson bill for development of the Boulder canyon project was completed by Representative Swing, Republican, California, and was taken into conference with Secretary Work, author of new proposals which have been written into the measure. The measure, which has been rewritten to provide for a Government bond issue of $125,000,000 for construction of a flood control, irrigation and power project, will be brought before the Senate Irrigation Committee immediately after having received the approval of Secretary Work.

Sleigh Bells On Fifth Avenue

New York.—Jingling sleigh bells were heard along Fifth avenue recently for the first time in many years, as a two-seater sleigh drawn by a pair of brisk chestnuts, and driven by Thamos Conorton, a cabby, left the Hotel Plaza with its first "fare." Taxicabs and limousines halted respectfully to give it the right of way. "Fifteen dollars the hour's my price," said Conorton. "There's plenty of takers at that price."

NORTHERN EDITORS BACK GOVERNOR

At a reunion meeting of the 1922 Richardson for Governor Newspapermen's Campaign Committee, held at San Francisco on Saturday, Feb. 6th, the following resolution was unanimously adopted "urging" Governor Friend W. Richardson as a candidate for governor to succeed himself.

Whereas, The time is near at hand when the people of California will be called upon to select one of their number as Governor of this State, and

Whereas, The political machine that was put out of commission in the elections of three years ago has been overhauled and made ready for service in the 1926 campaign, indicating that the good fight for government by and for the people versus government by and for the politicans must be fought all over again, and

Whereas, Governor Friend W. Richardson has kept every pre-election pledge he made to the people in the 1922 campaign, especially that he would inaugurate and maintain a regime of Economy with Efficiency, substitute business for politics in the state government, restore efficiency to the various departments, give the people a just and responsive government, and decide every question on its merits without regard to his own political advancement, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, as editors of California newspapers, believing that we express the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of the people of this state, hereby urge Friend W. Richardson as a candidate for Governor to succeed himself, being convinced that his candidacy, however great the personal sacrifice entailed, is essential to victory for the cause he so signally represents.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to Governor Friends W. Richardson and that a copy be sent to the press of the state.

The following newspapermen, representing fourteen northern and two southern counties were present as follows:

M. F. Cochrane, Independent, San Rafael.

J. E. Olmsted, Argus, Petaluma.

W. F. Mixon, Mail, Woodland.

Sherman McDowell, Times-Star, Alameda.

F. B. Mackinder, Star, St. Helena.

BUSINESS HOUSES STILL CHANGING

The grocery stock of the J. D. Blaine store was all moved the last of the week and in the meantime A. W. Johnson had been at work remodeling the shelving and this week has been fixing the show windows.

It will be ready soon for A. T. Davey, who will move his stock from the I. O. O. F. hall building to his new quarters.

Rumor has it that both the Miracle store and the one to be vacated by The Model are already rented, but the new firms do not wish their plans divulged until later. Inquiry confirmed one of these reports but as yet we have had no statement regarding the other.

BEATITUDE

By EDMUND VANCE COOKE

"Malice toward none and charity for all!"
Sonorously the accents rise and fall
And echo down the half-forgotten Past
And yet shall echo while the ages last.

"Malice toward none and charity for all."
The words are still a challenge and a call
Unto a wounded world, whose drooping heart
Asks a fresh faith to soothe its bitter smart.

Simple, symmetrical, serene, sublime,
These words shine deathless on the dial of Time,
Chaste as a statue in a Grecian hall—
"Malice toward none and charity for all."

Unto a laboring Earth and all her brood,
His great soul gave this new Beatitude,
And still today he whispers through the pall,
"Malice toward none and charity for all."

BIG RECEPTION PLAN FOR PIONEERS

A new feature of the Santa Clara County Old Settler's Day at Campbell, February 22, is the big reception to be held for the pioneers and old timers of the valley.

The burden of this big undertaking will fall on the committee in charge but the responsibility is everyones to aid and assist the committee in every way.

DISTRICT P T A AT CAMPBELL WED.

The public is reminded of the meeting of the Sixth District of Parents and Teachers which is to be held at Campbell Union Grammar School, Feb. 17th. This is an all-day session and anyone interested in Child Welfare will enjoy these sessions open to the public. There is an impressive ceremony during lunch hour, in honor of Founder's Day. One number will include a huge cake, lighted with 29 candles, in affectionate memory of our founders. Should you intend to be present, be sure to make your reservation with Mrs. George Schuyler or Mrs. W. I. Merrill .

The afternoon session will be presided over by Mrs. Noble White, the 6th Dist president, and Mrs. Hugh Bradford, state president will be the guest of honor. There will be delegates from five different counties and Campbell Associations should turn out 100 per cent strong.

Miss Helen Kalas will sing a group of songs and Miss Katherine Wood will render a group of piano solos. Both of these young ladies are graudates of our school and the P. T. A. takes great pleasure in introducing them as "Our Own." Miss Mace will present the Girls' Glee Club sometimes during the days sessions.

Plan early and come, it is not only a privilege but a duty.

Beer Return Paper Circulated

Sacramento.—A questionnaire seeking the opinion of all registered voters in California on a proposal for return of light wines and beer in this country is being circulated through the northern part of the state by the California Division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment according to word received here.

Delhi, British India.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Captain Kermit Roosevelt, with Dr. C. W. Wilkinson of the British service, bagged eleven tigers and two rhinoceroses during their recent six-day hunting trip in the Nepal.

CAMPBELL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLDS BUSY SESSION

Campbell Chamber of Commerce held a busy and interesting session at the Community hall Monday evening, President S. N. Hedegard, presiding. Secretary Farley being still confined to the house, H. C. Smith was appointed pro tem.

J. F. Wehmeyer of the public improvement committee reported that all parties in the first block on North Central Avenue were willing to do their part toward paving and curbing the street to the county's paving line.

R. Alison chairman of the highway committee reported a joint meeting of his and the public improvement committee to discuss the street paving. Special committees were recommended to ascertain and report the approximate cost of curb, gutter and macadam for the properties on both Central and Harrison avenues. On motion the recommendation was adopted and the president appointed, J. F. Wehmeyer, C. H. Whitman, L. Genasci, E. R. Kennedy and A. Ferro for Central avenue and B. O. Curry, J. C. Ainsley and J. B. Strong for Harrison Avenue.

R. Alison and S. N. Hedegard met with the county supervisors asking early work on the rough roads west of town. The supervisors recommended a new petition for the extension of Campbell Avenue west of San Tomas road.

On motion the highway committee was authorized to circulate and file a petition with the county board to open the extension of Campbell Avenue from San Tomas road to Prospect road.

Edward Genasci reported road work needed on Rincon Avenue and O. Strom asked that something be done to remove the water on South Third street. Both matters were referred to the improvement committee.

C. H .Whitman stated that the weekly luncheons were having a good effect among the merchants and the consolidation and specialization in merchandise lines was deemed a wise move.

Mrs. W. I. Merrill and H. C. Smith were appointed to the publicity committee for Feb. 22.

The light committee is working on the extension of the lighting district. With a vote of thanks for a good service well done the banquet committee was discharged.

After some discussion it was voted to place the dues at $2 for this year. A campaign is to be held between the Reds and Blues to secure a "full house" membership. J. F. Wehmeyer is captain of the Red army and E. R. Kennedy of the Blues. Some real fun is promised before the gong sounds.

GRANGE TO SERVE DINNER FEB. 22

Over one hundred members were present at teh Grange Tuesday evening to listen to Prof. B. A. Rudolph on brown rot of the Apricot and other fruits. Prof. Rudolph is an easy, rapid speaker and covered the subject of brown rot and its control in a very thorough manner. The prevention of the disease is of great importance to the firuit grower. The prunning off of all dead twigs and branches, is a help, but it is practically impossible to get all of them off, and a single twig that has been affected, left in the top of a tre will produce spores enough to infect all the fruit on the tree under favorable conditions.

He recommended spraying with bordeaux 8-8-50, which means 8 lbs. of copper sulphate and 8 lbs. quick-lime-slacked, to 50 gallons of water, applied as soon as the buds show the pink. He spoke for some time on the preparation of the spray material, saying a home mixture was as good a sany other, and advised stock solutions which may be kept indefinitely. They are prepared as follows: 40 gallons of water are placed in a barrel and 80 lbs of copper sulphate put in a sack and suspended in the top of the barrel. If the water is hot this will disolve in 24 hours or less, if cold it takes much longer. Thsi gives nearly a saturated solution of 2 lbs. of copper sulphate to 1 gallon of water and can always be used in that proportion for any mixture.

In preparing the lime, use just sufficient water to slake it to a thick paste. 80 lbs. of good lime will be sufficient for the 80 lbs. of copper sulphate. In mixing them the lime paste is first mixed wtih more water so it can be strained into the spray tank, thus avoiding any hard or coarse particles in the spray mixture. The method of using stock solutions is of great advantage to the orchardist as they can be prepared before hand in any quantity and save time in the busy season.

Prof Rudolph gave a thoroughly practical talk based on experiences on his own farm and it was highly appreciated by the grange. Mr. Leroy Anderson from committee on legislation gave a general talk on proposed legislation for the relief of farmers. Mr. Gilbert Newcomb read an interesting and instructive paper on the Dickenson bill now before congress. Mr. H. C. Hagen spoke on the McNary-Hangen bill, which failed to become a law during the last congress, and other bills were considered. A grange attendance contest has been organized in which all members were tagged either with a red or orange bow. The counting showed 55 oranges and 49 red present, besides several who did not get tagged. This contest is to last for several months then the loosers are to give a banquet to the winners.

The committee on new hall made a short report and asked for a vote on the question. Does the grange wish to build a hall of their own, which resulted in 74 affimative and 31 negative votes. Committee continued. Old Settler's Day was discussed by Mr. S. N. Hedegard. The grange voted to give dinner on the occasion. Sisters Barns, Hedegard, and Clendening being appointed committee in charge.

Tuesday evening Ada Rebekah Lodge No. 223 will initiate a class of candidates. District Deputy President, Lou C. Kerr, will pay an official visit. There will be a short program and a real banquet, the committee being Mrs. Kathrine Burs, Mrs. Lucy Smith, Horace Lea and C. Johnson.

IMPROVEMENTS ON AT CAMPBELL THEATRE

Mr. A. Saso, manager of the local theater is making a number of changes and improvements in the interior of the building. A stage with a drop curtain is being constructed which will make it possible to put on entertainment numbers occasionally and a re-arrangement of the seats will provide additional seating capacity.

Mr. Saso is very enterprising and has built up the business very materially and is giving his patrons a exceptionally fine line of pictures for a small town theater. It is a great adjunct to have the best of the pictures brought to our door, often before they have shown in San Jose or San Francisco.

Your patronage will help to increase the quality of the shows presented.

"EXPOSING" GREAT MEN OF HISTORY

Many fictitious narratives have sought places in the biography of Abraham Lincoln. No life so full of important events as his could well escape this. Fortunately, these exaggerations are favorable and consistent with his nobility of character and greatness of purpose. But of late the country has had its famous men of history come in for a share of criticism. It has been intimated that there is a "real truth about Washington" which, if generally published, would affect the public as the child when it is told there is no Santa Claus.

This is all wrong. We can not imagine any true-loving citizen who would wish his idealistic notions changed in respect to such great Americans as Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and Lee. The fact that they had imperfections (if, indeed, they had) does not detract from their fame nor lessen the value of their achievements. It is enough that they served humanity as they did.

It is enough that Lincoln's great heart remoulded a stricken nation to realization of its strength in unity; that he began as a splitter of rails and ended as the head of a sovereign nation; and that his policies have since remained as foundation stones in the preservation of a republican form of government.

Let us hear no more about "exposing great men!" True greatness needs no exposure, nor is it capable of it. There are enough disturbing elements in the world today to which constructive measures of reform should be directed, without shattering the monuments built with shed blood and sacrifice that we might live and glorify ourselves as an enlightened posterity.

It will do no harm, but manifest good, to keep right on believing that the great men and women of the world deserved the credit of an approach to immortality.

PROHIBITION STILL A LIVE ISSUE

About the time the country settles back in resignation to Prohibition as a fact, or to enjoyment of it as a theory (depending upon the point of view,) along comes a session of Congress. In one week of the present Congress three resolutions were introduced on the subject. Representative Seger, of New Jersey, wants a commission to determine what constitutes an intoxicating beverage; Senator Blease, South Carolina, demands that the use of liquor at embassies and legations in Washington be investigated; while Senator Bruce, of Maryland, proposes an amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment which would give the country virtually a form of local option.

The signifiance of these resolutions is more important to the nation than are their chances of changing the present status of Prohibition. They show an unrest, a never-ending struggle over the issue, which probably will last until the problem is solved by natural and social adjustment as well as by statutory enactment.

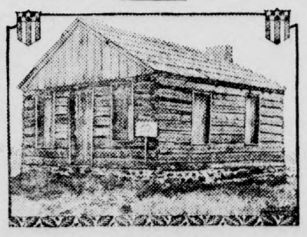
LINCOLN'S "STUDY"



The picture shows the Onstott cooper shop at New Salem, Ill., which is rich with historical interest. It was in this building that Abraham Lincoln studied law by the side of the fireplace, the only light available. The fire was fed with shavings so that Lincoln could see to study. The building today appears very much the same as it did during Lincoln's time, and the original logs yet remain.

LYDIA A ZION

Miss Lydia Ann Zion passed away early Tuesday morning at her home on North Central Avenue as the result of heart failure. She had been troubled with heart attacks for some months past but she had recently recovered so to be about and attend church where she was a faithful attendant when possible.

The deceased was a native of Indiana 81 years and nine months old at the time of her passing. In 1870 she was married to Isaac Zion and wtih him moved to Nebraska in 1879. With their family they came to California in 1907, living in Campbell most of time since. She is survived by her husband and two sons, William F., of Cutbank, Mont., and Edwin H., of Modesto, Calif.

Funeral services will be held from Curry, Gripenstraw and Darling funeral home Saturday morning at ten o'clock. Friends are invited.

RICHARD JULIUS FARR

The death of Richard Julius Farr, which occurred at Tucson, Arizona, Sunday, Feb. 7th, came as a shock to most of the many friends of the family who had not learned of his critical illness.

The young man had been in ill health for several years fighting tubercular trouble, which had taken him to more arid climate of that section and there he contracted spinal menigitis. A telegram summoned his father to his bedside which he reached a short time before the young man passed away and had the great comfort of a short talk with him.

Dick Farr, as he was generally called, was born in Algona, Ia., Oct. 16, 1899, and was twenty-six years and four months old. He began his school education at Thornton, Iowa., and completed his high school course at Oakdale, Calif.

Of his immediate family he is mourned by his parents, four brothers, Walter H., a student at Stanford Medical College; Willard M., attending College of the Pacific at Stockton; John W., and Kenneth C., of Campbell; and one sister, little Lois D.

The ending of the earthly life of those just entering into full manhood or womanhood is always sad and our friends have the sincerest sympathy in the loss of their oldest son and brother.

Mr. Farr accompanied the remains home Wednesday and funeral services were held from Hocking and Williams parlors yesterday. Interment was at Oak Hill Cemetery.

CONG'L CHURCH NOTES

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the Bible School will have its monthly Missionary program. Some of the young people will give a ten minute Missionary play entitled "The Family."

In the evening at 7:30 Mrs. Jessie Getty Heath will speak under the auspices of the County W. C. T. U. Mrs. Heath has been pastor of the Congregational Church of Ferndale, Humbolt Co., for several years and is a very interesting speaker and is well worth hearing. The community is invited.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th, Dr. Hinman of San Francisco will be with us and speak on "Race Problems." Dr. Hinman is the Secretary of the American Missionary Association on this coast and is known to many Campbell people. This will be the first of six talks to be given on successive Wednesday evinings on this subject.

The body of a male infant, not over twenty-four hours old, was found recently in a load of garbage from the downtown district of San Francisco, hauled to the public incinerator. Investigation disclosed that the baby had been strangled to death with a fishing line.

Women of America

I have never studied the art of paying compliments to women, but I must say that if all that has been said by orators and poets, since the creation of the world, in praise of women were applied to the women of America, it would not do them justice.—Abraham Lincoln.

Tulare county dairymen are using electricity for sterilizing milk.

A cotton growers' institute for Merced and Madera counties is proposed at Chowchilla early in March.

Cotton picking throughout the San Joaquin valley has been materially delayed by heavy fogs recently.

Turpins weighing nine pounds each are being exhibited at Willits by a Mendocino country truck farmer.

George R. Anderson, who bought the Lawrence Meyer ranch, is building a new type of apple dryer. Fifty tons of green fruit will be dried daily.

The standardization rules in force in the Shafter district, in Kern county, were adopted by forty potato growers of Shafter at a meeting held January 13.

A force of men is now engaged on the W. P. Hammon ranch in the Union district, near Oroville, Butte county, preparing the property for a modern poultry ranch.

A poultry club for the Porterville district, in Tulare county, to be organized about February 20, is planned by a group of representative poultrymen of that district.

J. J. Proctor, a rancher near Eureka, Humboldt county, harvested fresh loganberries in the middle of January. The usual loganberry harvest is in July.

American Colony, Fresno county, will see considerable cotton planting this next season, according to cotton growers, who are well pleased with the returns of last season.

James R. Pitcher, of Pasadena, who recently became interested in Imperial valley farm lands, believes that grapefruit, not cotton, is to be a sound basis of the valley's prosperity.

An army of 5,000,000 ladybugs has been recruited by the state department of agriculture, with the assistance of the University of California, to wage war on insect pests, which annually attack the apple, pear, cantaloupe, prune and vegetable crops of California.

The little ground squirrel, California's major rural rodent pest, was "knocked for a row" in Tulare county the last year, but in other places managed to remain as a crop-destroyer and potential plague-breeder, according to the annual state-federal rodent control report.

The California Fruit exchange, at Placerville, Eldorado county, which handles approximately 40 per cent of the fruit sent to eastern markets from California, had total shipments during 1925 of 11,935 cars, it was announced. The fruit sold by the exchange brought a total of $17,350,000.

Planning to test the adaptability of soil and weather conditions in certain areas in Kern county to the growing of avocadoes, Thomas H. Derby, a Bakersfield realtor, has ordered three trees from a nursery at Monrovia, which he will have planted in the Weed Patch district.

WORD FROM SOUTH AFRICA

Many of our readers will remember Miss Ruth Cowles, eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cowles, missionaries in Natal, So. Afraica, but who lived in Campbell several years. She is now with her parents at Umzumbe and has written an interesting letter of her work there. Mrs. Cowles brother, Fred Bridgman, who was stationed at Johannesburg died several months ago, and Miss Ruth will later be at that city.

Umzumbi, M. S.
Umzumbi Rail,
Nov. 12, 1925.

Dear Friends:

Merry Christmas to each one of you! Your Merry Christmas and mine will be very different this year; but it's a wonderful thing to know that we shall all be celebrating it at the same time, whether we be on this side of the world or that. We shall be eating green corn while you enjoy boiled onions for Christmas dinner! And we shall be wielding fans, while you gratefully don warm clothes. It's all so topsy-turvy, that it's hard for me, this first year, to realize that Christmas is actually coming.

It is spring-time here, and the recently burned fields are gay with lovely flowers. The bush at our back door is teeming with life; myriads of insects, hundreds of gorgeous birds, and troops of saucy monkeys are there. Snakes, too, are none too scarce! Every daythe hills all about us grow greener, and the mountains in the distance loom up bluer in the clear air. I wish you might all enjoy wtih me the beauty and the interest of this land.

Many of you know that I have been placed at Umzumbi for six months of language study. This means that I am with Father and Mother, for they are the only missionary family on this station. My brother, Raymond, is here too, doing research work for his Ph D., and collecting scientifc specimens for several institutions in the U. S. A. This is the first time in many years that we four have been together so long, and it is a treat.

I have been particularly glad that Raymond and I were here to share with Father and Mother teh sorrow that has come to us all in the death of Mother's brother, Dr. Fred Bridgman. Of course his loss comes very close to me, for he was in charge of the work in Johannesburg. I hope that I can help to carry out some plans that were so dear to his heart, because they mean the uplift of the people for whom he literally gave his life.

There is nothing dull about the life at Umzumbi, even if we are way off in the wilds! Every day brings some big new business for Father's supervision, or some lesser matter of interest. I am helping Mother with the medical work that she has carried on for so many years; incidentally I am acquiring my medical vocabulary and an understanding of the people. The dispensary work leads to a good deal of district nursing. Over the hills I go, on horseback, to see my patients. I usually find them in one of a group of round, thatched huts. Just yesterday I went to see a man who thought he was dying. My arrival was heralded by a wail of terror from a cut little brown toddler who had never before seen a white person. I entered the hut of the sick man almost on hands and knees, through the only opening, a very low door. At first I wa salmost blinded by the smoke from the inevitable hearth fire in the center of the one room; but when I could see, I found myself in the midst of a crowd of prospective mourners. The space in the hut not occupied by them and all sorts of cooking pots, was filled with livestock,—from cockroachers to young calves,—and the patient lay on a mat on the floor, apparently oblivious to it all. Of course, he had been dosed with native medicines until he was half-dead. We are called upon only as a last resort! To complicate matters further, the man and all his relatives believe that he has been bewitched! It is nothing less than a miracle that any of these folk recover.

Zulu babies are adorable. Many of the very new ones are brought to us by puzzled mothers who cannot understand why a diet of cornmeal mush or sour milk should give a new-born infant a pain in his little insides! My mother draws a wonderfully effective comparison between their babies and bay calves, asking why the latter are not removed from their mothers at birth and fed on a like diet. Because native life centers around cattle, light dawns, and the white-haired missionary lady adds another dark mother to her list of friends, and another brown baby is given a decent start in life. But medical work is not the only work here!

Five nights a week, about forty of the most lovable imps gather together for Night School. The "nighties",- as they call themselves, are little boys who herd cattle all day, and therefore do not have an opportunity to attend the regular school. If you could see their garb, you would appreciate the more the appropriateness of the name "nighty"! These little rag-tags believe in all sorts of witchcraft and "spokies" and it is in Night School that they first learn of the Light that dispels all these powers of darkness. I wish you might look in upon them when Mother holds prayers with them each evening. Forty little black faces look up to her with shining eyes and a shining smile, as they listen to the wonderful story that Jesus loves them. And how they do sing! Little tads knee-high-to-a-grasshopper take bass parts with gusto; can't you just imagine how hard it is to restrain one's "risibles"? As I sit here visiting these very words, I can hear them singing "Jesus loves me, this I know." They will soon be learning their first Christmas hymns. Most, if not all of these boys, have never before known the Christmas story.

Since beginning this letter, something has happened that I want to share with you. Today at the close of the early morning meeting (this is Sunday,) we were startled to see an old-white-bearded man dressed in a robin's-egg blue coat, get up and confess to drinking native beer, and pledge himself not to touch it again. This old sinner has been a regular attendant at church for years, but has never been admitted into membership because of this one failing of his. We call him Father Christmas, he is so old and jolly; for him to give up his precious beverage at this time of life, is a secrifice that I am sure I could ont equal. Do you wonder that I love and respect such folk? It will be a glad day for my father when he hears the good news about Father Christmas.

Father is obliged to be away from home a good deal of the time, for his work is the supervision of all the churches and schools of this region. As I look upon the work done by my parents and my other fellow-missionaries, I often wonder if I can ever grow to their measure. It is fortunate for us who are new recruits, that we have some time for language study before we plunge into our work. There is so much to learn! Just at present I fel very useless, but I comfort myself with the thought that time spent as an onlooker and student of the people with whom and for whom I am at work, is time gained. The time when I shall go to Johannesburg depends upon my mastery of the language. After so many years of absence from Africa, it is taking good solid digging to learn Zulu, but it is coming surely if slowly. I hope that my next letter to you will be sent from my own field.

For me the New Year will be full of great adventure; may it bring the richest blessings to each one of you.

Very sincerely,
Ruth C. Cowles.

REAL GREATNESS BEYOND LEGEND

History Will Know Lincoln as "Patient, Kindly, Wise, Foreseeing Man."

Perhaps the one thing to fear for Lincoln's greatness is the growth of legend about it. There is no doubt there is such an incrustation forming upon his fame, and if that process is active so soon after his death, what must be its progress in the centuries to come? What must his real greatness suffer from it? Not in the interest of history alone, but in that of the name and fame of one of the greatest and wisest of Americans, it ought to be the concern of those who are almost his contemporaries to arrest this growth, to remove it so far as it has already obscured the genuine and solid substance beneath and to

P G & E PLANS

"The Pacific Gas and Electric Company is entering 1926 with a program for the extension of a dependable Service to the greatest possible number of people, through a liberal extension policy and always at the lowest cost consistent with the class of service rendered, "says Frank A. Leach, Jr., Vice-President and General Manager of the Company in making announcement for plans for the year.

"We will spend on construction twenty-five million dollars. This will include the dam and intake of Pit No. 4, fifth of the Company's string of Pit River plants, and the building and equipping of the new power plant of 36,000 horsepower capacity at Malones, on the Stanislaus, the generators of which will be run with water purchased from the Oakdale and South San Joaquin Irrigation Districts."

"The gas program for 1926 calls for many important improvements, additions and extensions, but the biggest job of the year will be the erection of a holder of 10,000,000 c. f in Oakland. The job including cost of land, compressor plant and pipe lines will run to a million dollars."

"The 220,000 volt power line from Vaca-Dixon substation located on the Highway between Vacaville and Dixon to the Contra Costa Substation near Antioch will be completed. This is a double circuit line 15 miles long, costing nearly a million dollars. Work planned and yet to be done make certain that 1926 will be a memorial year in the Company's history. Among the big jobs and the amounts to be spent are: Pit 4 dam and intake, 1,740,000 of the total of $15,000,000 which the completed plant will cost. Melones Power house and tunnel, $2,523,000. Service improvements in San Jose and vicinity, $750,000. Manteca-Salinas transmission line, $598,000. Continutaion of work of raising Fordyce Dam, Nevada County, $400.00.
